

International Humanitarian Law

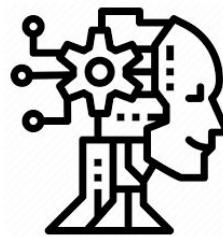

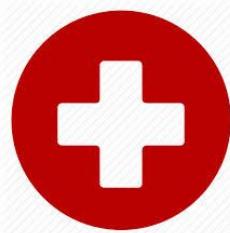

Yue Cao

What is International Humanitarian Law

- A set of rules that limits the effects of wars.
- International Humanitarian Law protects those who are not fighting, which includes
 - Civilians
 - Medicals
 - Religious military personnel
 - Soldiers who aren't able to fight anymore(wounded, sick, prisoned)
- Consequences of violation
 - States are obliged to prosecute individuals who violate IHL.
 - Individuals can be prosecuted by various international criminal tribunals.

Future of Warfare and International Humanitarian Law

- Artificial Intelligence will replace humans in warfare
- Artificial Intelligence must not violate International Humanitarian Law.
- Can Artificial Intelligence distinguish between combatants and noncombatants?

Ideas

- Machine Learning:
 - Use many images of
 - combatants and non-combatants
 - Things belong to the military and civilians
 - to train the AI, which is really straight forward